This report checks your offer against Ontario's rules and gives you an estimated range: the legal minimum (a fixed rule) up to what courts often award for someone like you (an estimate). It doesn't promise an amount or tell you what to do.

General information, not legal advice. We've done our best to make this clear and accurate, but please check the details before you act. If anything feels unclear, a professional can help.

The important stuff — please read.

Straight talk about what this pack is, what it isn't, and where the responsibility sits.

1 · This is a do-it-yourself report

This is designed for you to use on your own. It organizes your offer and prepares questions — it is not advice a lawyer would give you after reviewing your full situation, and a lawyer may see things very differently. Anything you choose to send or say, you're doing on your own initiative.

2 · Information, not legal advice

This pack gives you information to help you prepare. It does not make FairExit your lawyer and does not create a lawyer–client relationship. Nothing here is legal advice.

3 · We use AI — mistakes can happen

The explanations, notes, and draft questions are produced by software and AI from general rules and the details you gave us. AI can be wrong, details can be misread, and laws change. It is up to you to read everything carefully and confirm every fact is correct before you rely on it.

4 · No guarantee — and the decisions are yours

Any general information here can be wrong, and outcomes depend on your paperwork and your situation. FairExit accepts no responsibility for what you send, say, or decide based on this report — those choices are entirely yours. Deadlines to act can be short; confirm them with a lawyer promptly.

5 · Only a lawyer can give you the exact answer

We provide clarity in an organized way. Only a licensed employment lawyer can confirm what you're truly owed, review your real contract, and advise you. If anything feels urgent or serious — especially before you sign anything — speak to a lawyer. The first call is often free.

6 · Once a lawyer takes your case, follow them

Everything here is general and organizational. If you retain a lawyer, their advice supersedes anything in this report — follow your lawyer, not this document. Do not rely on this report once you're working with a lawyer.

Your offer, at a glance.

The short version before the detail.

Lakeshore offered you $48,678 (22.5 weeks), plus $5,000 more only if you sign a release. That is about $1,038 short of the legal minimum: the 6% vacation pay owed on the 8 weeks of notice pay is missing. The $48,678 is yours whether you sign or not. Your contract says the minimum is all you get, but another clause in it may stop that limit from holding. You don't have to sign yet.

Things they don't always tell you.

Here's what the official rules say, so you can decide on your timeline, not theirs. Every point links to a government source.

WHAT PEOPLE OFTEN THINK	WHAT THE OFFICIAL RULES SAY
"I have to sign by their date or I get nothing."	The ESA money can't be signed away. Your letter says the $48,678 is paid either way; only the extra $5,000 depends on signing. Source: ontario.ca · Employment Standards Act, 2000, s.57
"They can pay me whenever they want."	Termination and severance pay are due by the later of 7 days after your last day or your next regular pay day. Source: ontario.ca · Your guide to the ESA: severance pay
"My benefits end on my last day."	During the 8-week ESA notice period, the employer must keep paying into your benefit plans. Source: ontario.ca · Employment Standards Act, 2000, s.57
"Vacation pay is already in there."	Vacation pay is owed on termination pay (not on severance pay). Source: ontario.ca · Your guide to the ESA: vacation
"If I don't act this week, I lose my rights."	You generally have 2 years to file an ESA claim. The deadline in your letter is for their extra offer. Source: ontario.ca · Your guide to the ESA: severance pay

Did they do it right?

Your letter, your contract and the rules, side by side. Green = it lines up. Red = it doesn't. Yellow = worth asking about.

1 LINE UP | 2 DON'T | 3 TO ASK ABOUT

WHAT WE CHECKED	YOUR LETTER SAYS	YOUR CONTRACT SAYS	THE RULES SAY	DOES IT LINE UP?
Notice pay	8 weeks of pay. No vacation pay on it.	"The legal minimum"	8 weeks, plus 6% vacation pay on that pay	Doesn't line up About $1,038 of vacation pay is missing.
Severance pay	14.5 weeks of pay	"The legal minimum"	1 week per year, counting completed months: 14.5	Lines up The math is right.
Benefits	Health and dental 8 weeks. Life and disability stop now.	Only what the law says	All benefits keep going for 8 weeks	Doesn't line up Life insurance and disability should continue too.
The "only the minimum" rule	"Your full entitlements"	s.8 says minimum only, but s.7 fires for small things	A clause that goes further than the law can fall	Ask about it If it falls, you could be owed a lot more.
Your job	QA Supervisor, 4 reports	Signed as a Technician at $58,000	Courts sometimes say an old contract no longer fits	Ask about it Worth asking a lawyer.

Your estimated range.

The legal minimum is a fixed rule. The top is our estimate of what a court might award, and only applies if your contract doesn't validly limit you.

ESTIMATED SEVERANCE RANGE

$49,716 – $206,250

Floor = 8 weeks notice + 14.5 weeks severance pay. Top = about 15–22 months of base pay, which applies only if your contract doesn't validly limit you. Your offer is $1,038 below the minimum.

Your offer — below the legal minimum

Offer $48,678

Legal minimum $49,716

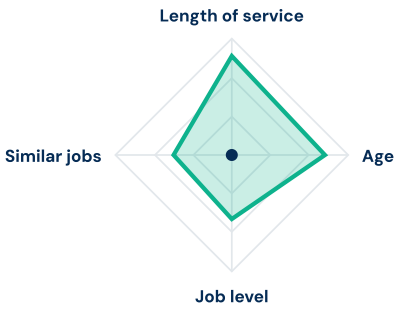

Likely open · courts $140,625–$206,250

This is an estimate, not a promise. Base pay only: a bonus and benefits during the notice period could add to it. Pay from a new job usually reduces the part above the minimum. Only a lawyer can confirm your number.

General information, not legal advice. We've done our best to make this clear and accurate, but please check the details before you act. If anything feels unclear, a professional can help.

What lifts your range.

Courts look at four things when they decide how much notice is fair. Your pay isn't one of them: it turns the months into dollars.

Centre = works a little in your favour · edge = works a lot

- Length of service: 14 years 6 months. Strong. One of the biggest factors.
- Age: 57. Strong. Finding a new job can take longer.
- Job level: QA Supervisor, 4 reports. Middle. Above front-line, below senior management.
- Similar jobs nearby. Not in your documents. Shown in the middle until you tell us.

Your pay: $112,500 a year ($9,375 a month). It turns the months into dollars.

What your shape says

Your chart reaches furthest on length of service and age, two of the heaviest factors. That is why the estimate reaches toward $206,250.

Two numbers to understand

There are two numbers in your situation: the legal minimum, a fixed rule you can check yourself, and what a court might award, which is our estimate. This section explains the difference in plain words.

IN THIS SECTION

The floor, and the range above it

General information, not legal advice. We've done our best to make this clear and accurate, but please check the details before you act. If anything feels unclear, a professional can help.

The floor — and the range above it.

One number is a rule. The other is an estimate. Here is how each is worked out.

1 · The legal minimum (a rule you can check)

- Termination pay: 8 weeks × $2,209.60 = $17,676.80 (Employment Standards Act)
- Severance pay: 14.5 weeks × $2,209.60 = $32,039.20 (Employment Standards Act)
- Legal minimum: $49,716

2 · What a court might award (our estimate)

If your contract doesn't validly limit you, a court can award "reasonable notice" instead of the minimum, based on four factors: length of service, age, job level and similar jobs nearby. For you: about 15–22 months of base pay, $140,625–$206,250. Courts rarely go past about 24 months. Pay from a new job usually reduces the part above the minimum.

For each: what your documents say, what the rules say, and what it means.

DOESN'T LINE UP

1. The payout

YOUR DOCUMENTS SAY

"Eight (8) weeks … $17,307.69" termination pay and "Fourteen and one-half (14.5) weeks … $31,370.19" severance pay, "your full entitlements".

WHAT THE RULES SAY

The weeks are right, but vacation pay is owed on termination pay: 6% × $17,307.69 = about $1,038. The minimum is $49,716.

→ The $48,678 is paid whether you sign or not. Ask about the missing vacation pay.

ASK ABOUT IT

2. The "only the minimum" clause

YOUR DOCUMENTS SAY

s.8: "the minimum notice … required by the Employment Standards Act … no further notice … at common law." s.7: "'Cause' includes … any breach of Company policy, unsatisfactory performance …"

WHAT THE RULES SAY

Under the ESA only "wilful misconduct, disobedience or wilful neglect of duty that is not trivial and has not been condoned" removes termination pay.

→ Ask a lawyer to read s.7 and s.8 together.

Where this comes from: ontario.ca · Employment Standards Act, 2000, s.57

General information, not legal advice. We've done our best to make this clear and accurate, but please check the details before you act. If anything feels unclear, a professional can help.

DOESN'T LINE UP

3. Life insurance and disability stop too early

YOUR DOCUMENTS SAY

Health and dental continue 8 weeks. "Life insurance and long-term disability coverage end on the Termination Date."

WHAT THE RULES SAY

Pay instead of notice also requires continuing the benefit plan contributions that keep your benefits through the notice period.

→ Ask them to confirm life insurance and disability continue to November 23, 2026.

Where this comes from: ontario.ca · Employment Standards Act, 2000, s.57

General information, not legal advice. We've done our best to make this clear and accurate, but please check the details before you act. If anything feels unclear, a professional can help.

ASK ABOUT IT

4. Your bonus, your promotion and the release

YOUR DOCUMENTS SAY

No 2026 bonus ("actively employed on the payment date"). Signed in 2012 as a $58,000 technician; supervisor since 2019, no new contract (s.11 says changes don't affect it). $5,000 for a full release by Oct 5.

WHAT THE RULES SAY

If a longer notice period applies, a bonus earned during it is owed unless the plan clearly and unambiguously removes it. Arguments that an old contract no longer fits a bigger job rarely win alone, and s.11 is written to block them.

→ Ask for more time before signing, and how the 2026 bonus is handled.

To: your HR contact (Denise Faulkner) · Subject: A few questions about my separation offer

Hi Denise,

Thank you for the letter. Before I decide, I have a few questions.

Could you confirm that life insurance and long-term disability will continue to November 23, 2026, and that vacation pay on the termination pay will be included?

How will my 2026 bonus be handled?

I'd like a little more time to review the release. Could we extend the October 5 deadline by two weeks?

Thank you,
Gurpreet

Why this works: it asks clear questions instead of making claims, and asks for time to understand the offer.

Take your time — and keep it simple.

Two things that help: not rushing, and keeping your questions clear.

You usually don't have to decide on the spot

Your letter gives a deadline to decide (Oct 5, 5 p.m.). Asking to take the offer home to review it is a normal, complete answer. You can ask for an extension in writing.

This week — the practical stuff

- Apply for EI within 4 weeks of your last day (canada.ca).
- Write down every date: sign-by Oct 5, benefits Nov 23, 2-year claim limit.
- Gather documents: letter, 2012 contract, 2019 promotion note, bonus plan, pay stubs.
- Check your final pay for vacation pay.
- Keep this report to hand to a lawyer if you choose.
